Health Equity Skill-Building Training

Presenters and Facilitators: Center for Health Progress
Chris Klene, Chris Lyttle, and Sarah McAfee

Our current health care systems and community organizations do not adequately serve all populations because of the way our institutions were designed and built. Eliminating disparities and achieving health equity will require a deepened understanding of how we got here and confronting and dismantling social and institutional inequities. Join us for this skill-building training as we learn about root causes of preventable health equities.
